

The screenshot shows a Mozilla Firefox browser window with the title "Course: Introduction to Literature - Mozilla Firefox". The address bar shows the URL "www.smartpublishers.com/moodle/course/view.php?id=8". The page content is organized into three numbered units:

- 3 The Importance of Being Earnest by Oscar Wilde
 - Biography—Oscar Wilde (wikipedia)
 - Criticism—The Importance of Being Earnest (SparkNotes)
 - Text—The Importance of Being Earnest (amazon.com)
 - Text—The Importance of Being Earnest (Project Gutenberg)
 - Play—The Importance of Being Earnest (YouTube)
 - Glossary
 - Study Guide—Lesson 1
 - Study Guide—Lesson 2
 - Study Guide—Lesson 3
 - Study Guide—Lesson 4
 - Study Guide—Lesson 5
 - Vocabulary Quiz
 - Paper Assignment
 - Answer Keys
- 4 The Merchant of Venice by William Shakespeare
 - Biography—William Shakespeare (wikipedia)
 - Criticism—The Merchant of Venice (SparkNotes)
 - Text—The Merchant of Venice (amazon.com)
 - Text—The Merchant of Venice (Project Gutenberg)
 - Movie—The Merchant of Venice (YouTube)
 - Glossary
 - Study Guide—Lesson 1
 - Study Guide—Lesson 2
 - Study Guide—Lesson 3
 - Study Guide—Lesson 4
 - Study Guide—Lesson 5
 - Vocabulary Quiz
 - Paper Assignment
 - Answer Keys
- 5 Writing Lessons for Paper 1

The Windows taskbar at the bottom shows the Start button, several open applications (SmartFTP, Course: Introdu..., index - WordPad, Document1 - Mi...), and the system clock showing 9:47 PM.

This is two of the units in our “Introduction to Literature” course. The student will have links to biographies, criticism, and sometimes movies as in the case of these two units. Study guides will help the student to comprehend the readings as well as offer critical thinking and vocabulary exercises. Many lessons also have “bonus thoughts.” Each lesson represents approximately 1 to 1-1/2 hours of English a day.